It serves as a unique platform where leadership perspectives, strategic foresight, and institutional experience converge. This year, the Summit is structured around the motto "How to manage?", placing the multi-layered uncertainties faced by businesses and institutions at the very center of its discussions. Beyond identifying and measuring risks, the 2026 program will explore how companies should position for resilience in an era defined by complexity and volatility. It will also examine how strategic decision-making processes must evolve and how leadership should position itself within this new equation. By convening leaders mainly of Türkiye's foremost institutions and representatives of distinguished organizations, the Global Risks Summit continues to foster high-level dialogue on resilience, governance, and sustainable value creation. We are also expecting attendance from the FERMA community.
